

Mushroom Production Center

The Department of Botany, Maharaja Bir Bikram College, Agartala, established a Mushroom Production and Training Center for students of the college in the year 2021. Thereafter, the department conducted the training twice, that is one on December, 2021 and another one on July, 2023. This Center is established with a motive to enable the student community to take up Mushroom Production for self employment. The response received from the students is very appreciable. Many students come forward and actively participate in the training programme.
